CUNNINGHAM'S FAVORITE NEWSPAPER

Since 2020

Welcome To The Newsroom

A circular graphic with a watercolor-like texture in shades of green, blue, and purple. The text '3rd Edition' is written in a large, outlined, bubbly font. The '3rd' is green and the 'Edition' is blue. There are small colored dots around the main circle.

3rd

Edition

I hereby present to you, Team 323, our classroom's first ever newspaper. This paper will be written for you, by you, using information that you have discovered, topics that you choose to research, and amazing news you find from around Milton and the world.

How will it work? Each Friday a student will be assigned to write each section. You will have a week to write and create your page in the newspaper. Be creative!

insert images, go on wild goose chases to find new and interesting stories to report on, add links to great content, and make your section your own! Your final article is due at 6pm on Thursday evening. I will edit and review all content before 2pm on Friday to ensure that it is ready to publish. At our whole class meeting on Friday, you will be able to present your finished report. Your classmates will be able to read and enjoy the newspaper all weekend long! ★ Sign up now!

My Friend Dovin!

A few weeks ago my mom was doing yard work (as usual) and she looked up and saw what she thought was a dove perched in a tree mere feet away from her face. After that day I started going outside every single day and checking on the dove. We figured out that she was sitting on a nest and since then we have seen egg shells and bird droppings. After a few weeks, I went out to check on her and she wasn't there! So we did some investigating on allaboutbirds.org and found out that it was a Mourning Dove.

Mourning Doves are a variety of doves that live in North America, besides the fact that they look the same and live in the right region, we know that we identified her correctly because it says that the clutch size is two eggs, check. It says that the eggs are unmarked and white, check. Continued...

My Friend Dovin!

It says the nest is made of mostly pine needles and twigs, check. It says that it takes about two weeks for the babies to get out of the nest, che...wait, what? And then it hit me. She wasn't sitting on the eggs the entire time, she was sitting on the chicks to keep them warm! The good news is, mom and babies have flown away safely and left the nest. I'm hoping that this family comes back next year so I can get a look at the chicks. (Adult Mourning Doves look absolutely adorable, so I can imagine how cute the chicks look.)

YOUTUBE and NETFLIX

Are you bored in quarantine? Then go watch some TV or do Youtube. If you are doing too much of that then go outside!

If you have been doing a lot of that then read a book if you have been doing too much of that then you are doing very good. I think you should watch Netflix shows (if you have it). I recommend "Lost In Space," it is a sci-fi action TV series about a family that goes into space and meets a robot! I love this series so go check it out!

(AND MAYBE WATCH SOME SHREK!)

How to make a tasty s'more!

Today I'm going to teach you how to make a s'more. And I know you may already know how to make a s'more but i'm also going to be sharing some tips, facts, and the science behind the s'more so stay tuned.

How to Make a S'more

1. Use one graham cracker for the bottom and stack chocolate first then the marshmallow.
2. Then get another graham cracker and stack that on top.
3. Lastly, you want to put your s'more in the microwave for 25 seconds.

FUN FACTS

1. You can put sprinkles on s'mores
2. August 10 is National S'mores day
3. Girl scouts in 1900's created s'mores
4. S'mores used to be called Some More because you can't stop eating them
5. Presbyterian Graham invented the graham cracker in 1929
6. Starbucks was inspired to make a s'mores frap - try it!

Dolphins! Dolphins! Dolphins!

Have you ever heard of a Vaquita? Well probably not. Vaquitas are dolphin-like creatures called porpoises. One thing to know about them is that they are endangered. Like super endangered. As a matter of fact, they're critically endangered. Scientists estimate that there are only six to 22 left in the wild! To help with this, the Mexican government led the vaquita CPR project. In this case CPR means Conservation, Protection, and Recovery.

Another type of endangered dolphin is the Maui dolphin. The Maui dolphin lives off the coast of New Zealand. Scientists say there are about 63 to 55 of them left in the wild. One of the subspecies of the Maui dolphin is the Hector's dolphin. The Hector's dolphin is the smallest dolphin known to man. Both the Vaquita and the Maui/Hector's dolphin are very cute and very endangered.

Easy Pom-Poms for a Boring Day

These super easy pom—poms can be made in 12 simple steps. All you need is yarn, scissors, two hands, and moderate patience.

Hope you enjoy making your own pom—poms! Use thicker yarn to make bigger pom—poms, or only use two fingers to make smaller ones. Use two colors (or more) of yarn at once to make multicolored pom—poms.

Make a pom-pom!

1. Wrap yarn around 3 fingers (make sure not to wrap too tight)

2. Cut another piece of yarn, about six inches long

3. Push the yarn in between your fingers and the wrapped yarn

4. Slide the wrapped yarn off of your fingers
