One Parent's Journey: Talking to Young Children about Structural Racism with Dr. Kimberly Cauley-Narain

Who? Parents/guardians of elementary children

Where? On Zoom - Click here for link

When? January 20, 2022 7-8:30 pm

Why?

Deepen community conversations about racism for all ages

Join us to hear from Dr. Kimberly Cauley-Narain about her journey talking to her own children about structural racism. Finding no books that fit what she was looking for - she wrote a children's book that explores structural racism in the United States: Cycle of a Dream - A Kid's Introduction to Structural Racism. In the process, she integrated the broad evidence that supports talking to our preschool and elementary-aged children early and often about racism and other systems barriers that impede equitable educational, (mental) health and other experiences. Dr. Cauley-Narain will share her story and answer questions about what she has learned along the way.

This evening is conceived and hosted by the Collicot DEI Committee and sponsored by the Collicot, Cunningham, Glover and Tucker PTOs.

Milton Public Schools families, staff, teachers and the entire Milton community are all welcome! This event will be recorded.
