Healthy Relationships: Talking to
Your Kids about the Birds, the Bees,
AND the Butterflies

Oftentimes, we talk to our kids about the birds and the bees of relationships but leave out the butterflies. The "butterflies" are emotions that young people often feel when they are in an intense relationship or friendship.

This presentation will focus on concrete strategies, conversation starters, and resources that parents and caregivers can use with their kids to promote healthy relationships. As the Center for Disease Control points out, "unhealthy relationships can start early and last a lifetime." Casey previously worked at the Boston Public Health Commission as the director of the Start Strong: Building Healthy Teen Relationships Initiative. He received his M.A.T. from Trinity College and is a certified batterer/dating violence intervention counselor.

DATE: Tuesday, November 6th
