Collicot's One Book, One School – The Jennifer Kelly Project was launched at Collicot after Jennifer Kelly, a mother of past and present Collicot students Liam, Ava and Ronan, passed away unexpectedly in the summer of 2009. Jenn was a huge presence in the Milton Public Schools Community, who gave endlessly to The Collicot School and she was particularly passionate about the One Book, One School program. In this program, each family receives their own copy of the same book to read. The books chosen at Collicot celebrate diversity, embrace our differences and cultivate understanding, acceptance, and inclusion. The school community then comes together to participate in fun, shared events that celebrate the book's theme. The year that Jenn passed, she tried to start this program at Collicot as part of a diversity committee initiative. Unfortunately, funding was not available at the time. Due to overwhelming support from the school community, this project was launched in her memory.