Art Reflection – this reflection is associated with the drawing of Dr. King.

Family is what matters most in our lives. Behind Dr. Martin Luther King is his family; all of his brothers and sisters are standing right behind him, never silent, never stopping in the marching towards racial equality. Ergo they live on, their lives never end because they haven't forgotten about what matters most: their family which gives them immortality in a way. Behind Martin Luther King's family members are his actual phrases in his speech after Bloody Sunday, which have parts bolded: those bolded parts are actions necessary to overcome prejudice.
